

Super Deluxe, Your Pleasure's Mine

Well you've got something on your mind which isn't always the easiest thought to find oh but the concept you pursue wishing only that I knew what you knew

I swear everywhere I go I feel your presence there as if to let me know it's only my heart that you desire wrapped in tears and cellophane kisses and barbed wire well i'm afraid to look I can see you staring feel you set the hook it's not that I don't find you beautiful at times i'm not sure what you've heard but perhaps you've misinterpreted my words now that I decorate your shrine valentine

your pleasure's mine

deluded by your constant dreaming reality's a nightmare too you've got me so afraid of sleeping for fear that I might dream of you all those darling things you say (all those darling things you say) like "hey could you lend me your soul just for the day?" and promise you'll give it back to me once you've exorcised and set my spirit free blaming the voices that you hear on all the precious words i've whispered in your ear

I'm afraid to look
I can see you staring feel you set the hook
it's not that I don't find you beautiful at times not sure what you've heard but perhaps you've misinterpreted my words
now that I decorate your shrine
valentine
concubine
your pleasure's mine