

Susan Werner, Probably Not

Well I've travelled far and wide
'Cross hills and countryside
To answer the questions troubling me
When one day out of the blue
I realized I knew
And the answer was simple as could be

Is there a god above?
Is there eternal love?
Probably not
Probably not
Is there a home up in the sky?
Will we be there by and by?
Probably not
No, probably not

Think of that Easter day
When they rolled the stone away
And the apostles said they'd seen Jesus by the city wall
Well Saint Thomas' heart was pure
When he said, "o right yeah sure"
That's why Saint Tom was the grooviest apostle of all

Is there a god above?
Is there eternal love?
Probably not
Probably not
Is there a home up in the sky?
Will we be there by and by?
Probably not
No, probably not

But what if I've been wrong
And God's been up there all along all along...

And He hands me a heavenly crown
Would I dare to turn Him down
Probably not
Probably not
And if He sends me down to hell
Would I smile and say oh well
Probably not
No, probably Not
Probably not
No, probably Not
Probably not
No, probably Not

Oh no I do not think so
