"Shapes and Patterns"

Holding hands with summer

Gentle as a breeze

Fragrant as your petals

Cast their spell and leave

Someone was to blame

No one knew your name

Drifting into autumn

Brush away your tears

Shadows spread their sadness

Stole away her years

Someone was to blame

No one knew your name

(Icy cold as winter)

(Icy cold as winter)

(Icy cold as winter)

Chills your empty heart

Buried with the flowers

Frozen in the dark

Empty as a garden in the summertime

Captured by the falling rain

Now the playgrounds standing still are empty

No one else comes out to play

Warm spring that never came

I never even knew your name

Fill me with completeness

Fill me with your sweetness

Now the sun has gone

Everyone's gone home

No one else comes out to play
