Switchblade Symphony, Therapy

You don't know how to start Just look inside your heart You know I feel confused I don't know what to choose You better take a stand And find out who you are You better make a plan Cuz this has gone too far

When we went to the wishing well We thought we saw the light If you

Start, start, start to wake up Scream, scream, scream all you want See, see, see what you've done Start, start, start to wake up

I don't know what to do To make it right for you You tell me I'm no good I feel misunderstood I'm sick of taking blame Playing the same old game

When we went to the wishing well We thought we saw the light But even though we took that trip It never came out right If you

Start, start, start to wake up Scream, scream, scream all you want See, see, see what you've done Start, start, start to wake up

Now you

Start, start, start to wake up Scream, scream, scream all you want See, see, see what you've done Start, start, start to wake up....
