

Takida, A Point Of View

I know the way you're thinking, you think I'm always drinking
You got to find another one
I know I'm not that sober do you really think I'm colder
I know you're looking for someone

My life, I choose to live another way that's not in your eyes, my life

I'm only getting older and my visions getting nowhere
I got to change my point of view
I'm no different from you, you like to drink all night too
I'm just getting drunker that's all

My life, I choose to live another way that's not in your eyes, my life

But I'm still here, I know you care, this fear in me
I'm coming around, sometimes, on the way

My lite, I choose to live another way that's not in your eyes, my life

I'm still here, I know you care, this fear in me
I'm coming around, sometimes, on the way

I know my head is achin of all the drinks I've taken
I know you wont get along
I have waited so long for something to come along
I won't find it in this town
