

Tate McRae, we're not alike

I got a lack of good judgement
Judging by the fact I got close to you
Time should heal, but it doesn't
Or maybe 'cause you still haven't told the truth

You know there's nothing worse than missing the signs
'Cause you pulled the wool right over your eyes
I'll admit when I'm wrong, but this time I'm right
I'm sorry, but I'll never see your side

Said she was a "girl's girl", that's a lie
Said she had my back, but she had the knife
I could never do it once and she did it twice
And you wonder why, and you wonder why we're not alike

We're not alike
We're not alike

Told me him and I would look so good
So when did you decide you want him instead?
You want him instead
No, I'm not saying I'm petty
But that's not saying that you're so innocent
No, not innocent

You know there's nothing worse than missing the signs
'Cause you pulled the wool right over your eyes
I'll admit when I'm wrong, but this time I'm right
I'm sorry, but I'll never see your side

Said she was a "girl's girl", that's a lie
Said she had my back, but she had the knife
I could never do it once and she did it twice
And you wonder why, and you wonder why, we're not alike

And you wonder why
Yeah, you wonder why
Yeah, you wonder why
We're not alike
And you know I'm right
You know I'm right
Yeah, you know I'm right

She calls herself a "girl's girl", that's a lie
Said she had my back, but she had the knife
I could never do it once and she did it twice
And you wonder why, wonder why

Said she was a "girl's girl", that's a lie
That's a fucking lie
Said she had my back, but she had the knife
I could never do it once and she did it twice
And you wonder why, and you wonder why
We're not alike
