

Tenth Hour Calling, Last Time

When was the last time
You thought about His love it made you cry
When was the last time
The sunset put the tears in your eyes

He never moves and
He never changed
He never moves and
He never changed

So lets take this moment
Come on take this moment
Take this moment and think about His love

When was the last time you called upon his name in the night
When was the last time
You confessed your mouth and made it right

When was the first time
You could feel His love abounding in your life
When was the first time
You felt the sweet renewal in your life