

Tenth Hour Calling, Rain

Can't you see it in the distance?
These clouds of might are drawing near
To overtake my house and home
These shrieking winds of terror
Have come to take my heart away
And steal from me my passion

This hurricane disaster
Has tried to break my bones again
But now I'm only stronger
This rain is coming down now
With every drop I'm crying out
My Father will deliver me

You can't break me
You can't take me down
You can't break me
You can't take down
My Father will deliver me

I can feel your arms around me
The sun is breaking through the rain
And I have finally found the freedom
In the shadow of His wings
I will find my hiding place
In Him I take my shelter

I can feel it closing in on me
Sweet renewal has come to me