

Testament, Raging Waters

"Our ship sailed on through the
Violent burning sea
Not knowing of the danger
Waiting in store for me
We wound up all in mayhem
The vessel tossed and turned
The compass that had led us
We watched it slowly burn
We'll never see our homeland
We knew it all right then
That fate was on the second hand
Of borrowed time again
For the evil pathed our way

The men were being thrown
From left and right they fell
The water was as hot
As Satan's forge from hell
The questions that arose like
Where the hell are we
I had a good idea
We're in the Devils Sea: The Triangle! The Devil's Triangle!

See what's become of your Life left to live
No hope from this land of trust
Hells winds scream sacrilege
Death from above
The great white closes in
The corpses afloat all shattered in rage
No hope for our peace of mind
Satans vessels come closer and closer
He holds the sea's fate in his hand

Violence, terror
Raging waters
Dying has scared us nowhere to go now
Darkness prevails, no one to save us
Every one man for himself

The red gem of hades is shining too hot
Satan's power becomes strong
His armies have killed so many before us
A sacrifice must be done
The door of the chosen
Has opened for us
What sanctuary will we see
See him panic, crying in lust
Screaming he'll get me

Violence, terror

Our ship sailed on through the
Violent bearing sea
