Texas, Good Advice

Open the window I need some air So many people and there's such disorder here Familiar faces, found out lies And to distract I watch the passers-by

I wonder what they'd recognize And what they'd recommend to fill my days Possessions start to wear me down I need some good advice some good advice to wear my crown

I'm nervous can you help me I'm nervous can you help me I'm nervous can you help me Yeah I'm nervous can you help me

Inside they harbour secret thoughts
They peek through windows that have twice been locked
I have to walk to wear me out
I need some good advice some good advice to wear my crown

I'm nervous can you help me I'm nervous can you help me I'm nervous can you help me Yeah I'm nervous can you help me

I fold my arms and pray to leave I've got a head full of ideas inside of me My lips pressed tight so as not to drown I need some good advice some good advice to wear my crown

I'm nervous can you help me I'm nervous can you help me I'm nervous can you help me Yeah I'm nervous can you help me

Giving me some good advice Can never be wrong If I know it's you

Give me some good advice Can never be wrong If I know it's true

Give me some good advice Can never be wrong If I know it's you
