The 69 Eyes, Devils

Who told you about a man without fear Who told you about a god who does not care Who told you about a pain that does not hurt Who told you about a love that turns to dirt

Devils

You've got a face-to-face with your Devils

You've got a race to race with your

Devils

You've got to find a place among your

Devils

You cannot replace your

Devils

Devils

Who told you about cause and effect Who told you about a heart that can forget Who told you about fortune and fame Who told you that the evil has got no name

Devils

You've got a face-to-face with your

Devils

You've got a race to race with your

Devils

You've got to find a place among your

Devils

You cannot replace your

Devils

You can't deny

Devils

They'll get you in the night

You gotta ride on your rage with your devils
