

The Beloved, 1000 Years From Today

today i woke up smiling in a misty morning mood watched your face as you were sleeping i felt sure that you understood well you know, you know how i love you so more than ever now with each single day and you know that i'll still be loving you one thousand years from today got that deeper kind of feeling that a younger me kept pushing aside let me be for you all that i'm longing to right by your side

well you know, you know how i love you so
more than ever now with each single day
and you know that i'll still be loving you
one thousand years from today

yes you know a lifetime to be with you seems so little now yet so far away but you know that i'll still be loving you
one thousand years from today

all of my longing and all my belonging all i can give you, all my life with you

well you know, you know how i love you so
more than ever now with each single day
and you know that i'll still be loving you
one thousand years from today

yes you know a lifetime to be with you
seems so little now yet so far away
but you know that i'll still be loving you
one thousand years from today