

The Benjamins, Dr. Frank Was Right

I could only sleep when you were next to me then I'd never wanna get up good morning, sunshine did you dream about me?
and what the hell's in the way of our today?

yesterday I had it figured out you were gonna be mine now you love me more than toast and less than a staple gun let's not blow it right now let's not do something we'd both regret never is a long time to wait for you and I'm not getting any younger not getting any younger who's the new kid that you're seeing?

does he ever buy you flowers?
does he ever tell you that he'd love you till the end of time?
does he ever never wanna hurt you?

i just want someone to be there on my birthday i just want someone to get real drunk with i just want someone who needs someone to need them because I've got nothing left that I believe in so hello, and it's goodbye again I'm going home to cry again you still have all those letters I wrote you and I still have my song
