

The Big Pink, Velvet

Seen it in my head
Burning in my heart
Seen it in my past, back in my home
It doesn't make sense, to see her again
I don't know

I felt it for some time, ever not at all
Poison in my head, gun love hurts

I'm not looking for love
But it's hard to resist, I don't recall
Me and the stares

She's the only one, that's the best I've had
I found her in a dream looking for me
This heart's on fire, I'll bring myself up to force
And down again

These arms are mine, don't mind who they hold
So should I maybe just leave love alone
You call out my name, for the love you need
But you won't find in me

These arms are mine, don't mind who they hold
Your're made for me
And I'll leave love alone
You call out my name, for the love you need
Which you won't find in me

I seen it in my head
Burning in my heart
I found her in a dream, looking for me
Doesn't make sense to see her again
I don't know

I can see the end, of what I've become
A tale of love, come and gone
And now my love, now promises
I won't go falling in love
