

The Byrds, If You're Gone

by Gene Clark

If I need you, it's to me you're everything,

If I have you, if I love you just the same.

If you're gone, I'll see the daylight and that's all.

If you're here, the night is rightly gone before.

If I stand on understanding what is now,

If you're gone, then I know I will need someone.

If the daylight can be hidden by the sun,

If I ever need someone to show me how,

If I find the things you are then anywhere,

If I love you, If I know how much I care,

If you're gone, then there is nothing that remains
If I know you, I may never know your name.
