The Creatures, Slipping Away

pale against the sun my world is slowly dissolving ground beneath my feet it's melting away black falls into black I'm just a shadow of my former self losing gravity don't you know I'm slipping away fix your stare load your eyes now I'm shot down in flames fix your stare load your eyes all in the firmament flares a sea of melting clocks the tick-tock time dripping away all that was for real is just a memory starting to fade all that was for real just a memory slipping away it's slipping away