The Damned, Democracy?

Did you notice that just recently in London town The flags all waved The people smiled a lot, the world was right But now it seems that nothing's changed My ears are ringing with the promise The promise that they'll right the wrongs And that they're ever gonna give you Democracy, Democracy (you wanna bet?)

We've been down this path a million times
And yet there seems no hope for us
These times are hard and yet the few do well
The rest can wallow in the dust
And if you're looking for the answers
You won't need a chrystal ball
'Cause they're not taking any chances on
Democracy, Democracy (not on you life)

Don't tell me revolution changed a thing in France 'Cept for a king or two 'Cause when it's Bastile Day a toxic time bomb ticks In the Pacific blue 'Cause revolution changes nothing And voting changes even less 'Cause it's only time you are wasting on Democracy, Democracy (there's none round here)
