

The Effort, Wear Your Heart and i really knew it, you wouldn't have the guts to say goodbye, so i'll say it goodbye, you were too busy thinking of yourself and how to make a truth into a lie, so goodbye, but heart to heart we're better off without another kid who's stuck on himself and who cares for no one else, because this isn't a community if there is no you and me and if we don't have the strength to change ourselves, and i know its hard to say you gave up, so try and hear it from someone else, because the hate you spread it crushed our hearts, so just be honest with yourself.

i wear this x on my hand and this heart on my sleeve making it far too easy for the people who are trying to crush me, but they have no idea what its like to be me or to see the things i see, they can only watch me become who i want to be,
but they keep pushing, and wishing i wasn't around, but my voice will tear their ears, they'll hear us say, from day to day, i've listened to what you've had to say, but now its time, things are going to go my way, i'm like the kid, who said, i'll be something some day, and then the world had to come along and crush me, but i've found my home, this is were i belong, don't take that away from me, no one can take this away from me