

The Five O'Clock Heroes, Head Games

When you go away
When you hurt all the voices
That you've known
When you turn your head
From the feelings that will only make it worse
Now I feel my head come back down
Now I feel my head come back down
Now I feel my head come back down
Now I feel my head come back to the ground
When you lose your faith
And if you're sure that no-one ever knows
And if it's worth the wait
Then I will follow you wherever you will go
But if you lose your head
And if you learn how to keep your mouth closed
Would you or won't you taste?
It will change the way you think and it will show
Now I feel my head come back down
Now I feel my head come back down
Now I feel my head come back down
Now I feel my head come back to the ground
Take all that you want from me
All that I possess is yours
Anything that I would need
Is in the place that I once swore
When you go away
When you hurt all the voices
That you've known
When you turn your head
From the feelings
That will only make it worse
Oh now I feel my head come back down
Now I feel my head come back down
Now I feel my head come back down
Now I feel my head come back down
Now I feel my head come back down
Now I feel my head come back down
Now I feel my head come back to the ground