The Kingston Trio, The Wines Of Madeira

I've tasted the wines of France and I've tasted the wines of Spain and though many a wine is the sa There are none like the wines of Madeira.

I've courted the girls of France and I've courted the girls of Spain and though most pretty girls are t There are none like the girls of Madeira.

Oh, the girls who tend the vineyards in the provinces of France are the gayest girls for courting and And they're happy in their vineyards and they smile upon romance and indeed, I would defend for y But there's not a vineyard anywhere that can compare with what I know. Why? I'll tell you why or be

Oh, the girls who tend the vineyards in the provinces of Spain, they are spirited and fiery whether b They are splendid in their vineyards in their languorous refrain and indeed, I would defend for you t But there's not a vineyard anywhere that can compare with what I know. Why? I'll tell you why or be

You boast of the wines in France and you boast of the wines in Spain but your boast makes it very That you not had the wines of Madeira.

You boast of the girls in France and you boast of the girls in Spain but your boast makes it very pla That you've not seen the girls of Madeira.