The Mavericks, I Should Know

(Raul Malo, Al Anderson)

Every night alone Every night I spent without you Every little thing about you Runs right through my mind

I wonder where you are And do you ever think about me And if you get the feeling that There's something missing too

But I should know You'll never come back to me Even though I will always love you I should know

I'm the one to blame Something I did fine without you Thought I could fool myself And tell me everything's alright

Every night alone And every night I spent without you Every little thing about you Runs right through my mind

But I should know You'll never come back to me Even though I will always love you I should know

I should know You'll never come back to me Even though I will always love you I should ...

I should know You'll never come back to me Even though I will always love you I should know