

The Movement, Threw It All Away

I can't deny the feeling
We are running on the spot
We keep pretending to be in
With everything we're not

We keeping up with something
That we never chose
We're growing up just to be down
And still we be around

They took away your voices
They took away your dreams
They left your heart torn out
They threw it all away

Well if we came together
And put in all our rage
Then maybe we could be
The last generation dead

We keeping up with something
That we never chose
We're growing up just to be down
And still we be around

They took away your voices
They took away your dreams
They left your heart torn out
They threw it all away

Open your eyes and see what you missing
Open your heart and feel how you longing
Open your mind be true cause it's your turn
There's nothing learned

They took away your voices
They took away your dreams
They left your heart torn out
They threw it all away
