

The Noisettes, Angry Angels

A thousand angry angels in this town
For when the wall came down
We were allowed
To know too much
But nobody wanted to touch the unknown
There were a thousand angry angels in this town
For when this wall crash down
We were allowed to see too much
But nobody dared to taste the unknown
And time time time still on our side
Even though we hide in disguise
Oh time time time still on our side
Even though we hide
Time time time worlds collide
If we should part then I'd be like a log
Refusing to sing but I'll stay in the wind
I'll lose these old shoes while finding my feet in the unknown
If we should part I'd be like a log
Refusing to sing but will stay in the spring
We'll lose these old shoes while finding our feet in the unknown
In the unknown
In the unknown
Cause you die alone
Finding our feet in the unknown
