

The Proclaimers, Act Of Remembrance

Arms of steel, hair of gold
Royal blue eyes, with a rebel soul
You scared me, you still do
But I loved you
More than you ever knew

This is my act of remembrance
My act of remembrance

Doctor's face, said the time had come
I stood up, and began to run
My boy's voice, called your name
You roared back and the silence came

This is my act of remembrance
My act of remembrance

Drove my car, to your street
Hoped a ghost, I would meet
Well that ghost, he's moved on
But his anger, Dad is it gone?
Is the pain gone, is it all gone?

This is my act of remembrance
My act of remembrance

This is my act of remembrance