The Ramones, Punishment Fits The Crime

I hear the bells of freedom chimin'
And inside my heart I feel I'm dyin'
Wise guys never compromise
Then they loose their rights and they act surprised
Jail really cuts ya down to size

Let the punishment fit the crime The footprints on the sand of time The philosophy of the poet's rhyme Makes a man humble in his prime

You can go up, down, or sideways Be on death row, counting the days They say the answers are blowin' in the wind And to take yourself out would really be a sin You just have to cope and start over again

Let the punishment fit the crime The footprints on the sand of time The philosophy of the poet's rhyme Makes a man humble in his prime

Little child cries in his sleep And life makes promises it can't keep And then feel you had, had enough. You realize somehow, someway Your destiny was planned from the very first day

Let the punishment fit the crime The footprints on the sand of time The philosophy of the poet's rhyme Makes a man humble in his prime

Let the punishment fit the crime The footprints on the sand of time The philosophy of the poet's rhyme Makes a man humble in his prime

Let the punishment fit the crime Let the punishment fit the crime Let the punishment fit the crime Let the punishment fit the crime
