

The Shys, Waiting On The Sun

Its two am there's time to waste
I think I'll stick around and pick up the place
A plastic people have no home
At seems much to old for some so young
I need the warm breath of the loving sun
A men to rule can feel so cold

And I'm waiting on the sun
Cause I'm waiting on the sun
Cause it's just too late to call it a night
So I'll be waiting on the sun to shine

My mind is cloudy
My body so
I should have known better
But I'm back for more
Searching for comfort in a song
We're due forever
And all dried out

See the daybreak through the shiny clouds
And it don't bother me at all

Cause I'm waiting on the sun
And I'll be waiting on the sun
Cause it's just too late to call it a night
So I'll be waiting on the sun to shine

Loneliness has come
I carry the weight
With open arms
I lift up the shade
And let in the sun

Cause I'm waiting on the sun
Cause I'm waiting on the sun
And it's just too late to call it a night
So I'll be waiting on the sun to shine
