

The Used, Sun Comes Up

And it all falls down at once
And I try to get some sleep
And the comforts of this bed
Have all been shattered to pieces

I have a knack for feeling lost
All those times I couldn't eat
Like I couldn't yell enough
But getting tired of screaming

The sun comes up
And now you have a chance again
The world falls down
We all forget where to begin
The world collapses
You hold it in..

Maybe I have said too much
Or really haven't said enough
All these words they come undone
I'm getting lost in the meaning

And all the coldness in my thoughts
Of being frozen all alone
In a world that we destroy
And try to pick up the pieces

The sun comes up
And now you have a chance again
The world falls down
We all forget where to begin
The world collapses
You hold it in

The sun comes up
And now you have a chance again

All you've lost...
Leave your self you drift away in your eyes
Open up as you catch me
Caught before I hit the ground
I'm dying for you only

My feeling is forever happens
All at once
All at once

The sun comes up
And now you have a chance again
The world falls down
We all forget where to begin
The world collapses
You hold it in

The world collapses
You hold it in
The sun comes up
And now you have a chance again