Theory Of A Deadman, Heaven (Little By Little)

Heaven Now don't you be afraid We can always talk about No need to medicate Cause I know you're strong without it You got me through the days When I thought I couldn't face it Let me count the ways The love we have you can't replace it Just hold on, I'm not that strong There's a little piece of heaven Right here where you are The fact that you keep trying Is what sets you apart. Help me find the reason And I'll help you find the way To get rid of all your pain Little by little, day by day Now, you're far away And I'm alone to cry about it It's not a better place, When you die and leave me here to say Hold on, I was never that strong There's a little piece of heaven Right here where you are The fact that you keep trying Is what sets you apart. Help me find the reason And I'll help you find the way To get rid of all your pain Little by little, day by day You'll get stronger If you need me, I'm not far away So, just hold on I'll help you find a way I'll help you find the way There's a little piece of heaven Right here where you are The fact that you keep trying Is what sets you apart. Help me find the reason And I'll help you find the way To get rid of all your pain Little by little, day by day Little by little, day by day
