

There For Tomorrow, Remember When

Your initial reply hit me undercover
When I lost my head to it
It was out it's time, it was undiscovered
As I caught my breath again
You were running out of lines to keep me under,
Afraid of your backhand
So to speak,
You had me shaking at the knees

But I don't know the way out of this mess
No, I don't know the way out of this mess
And if you would've seen me at my best
Would it have changed anything at all?

Remember when we never had to remember
When times were better than this

The door was always open, but still not nearly Enough to let me in
And my eyes are wide awake, i can see you clearly
But you don't stand out one bit
I was always loud enough just for you to hear me
You never caught the wind
Now watch me break
Break down this time, this time again

But i don't know the way out of this mess
No, i don't know the way out of this mess
And if you would've seen me at my best
Would it have changed anything at all?

Remember when we never had to remember
When times were better than this

When times were better than this

And I'm still waiting for a sign
Or just a win-win situation
Can I hear it one more time
Without the sounds of devastation setting in?

Your initial reply hit me undercover
When I lost my head to it
It was out it's time, it was undiscovered
When you let me in
Oh, won't you let me in

Remember when we never had to remember
When times were better than this
(Do you remember when?)

When times were better than this
