

This Beautiful Republic, Casting Off

Can you forget all the lies you're told?
Will you let go of all the things you hold?
They can cost you more than you could know
But what will you do when everything's gone?

I saw you under the stars

And I caught you wanting them all
Desire can change who you are
You're so much better off
When nothing weighs you down

Breaking down, you're starting to see
The world's worth nothing when you were meant for Me
So cast off those stars they only fall for Me
I am still here when everything's gone

I'm here
Let Me take your heart out
Stay here I can make it better