

Tiger Baby, Chinese Fairytale

Though it was far away
It stands so clear today
The mountains, pagodas and green waving fields

We were flying on a dragon's back
And spirits surrounded us
The day we touched each others souls

Before I go to sleep
Renouncement is all that I need
To keep me from having
The same dream again

We were flying on a dragon's back
And spirits surrounded us
The day we touched each others souls

The rain is falling cold
To me it glows like gold
On roof tops of longing
Were reaching for the stars

We were flying on a dragon's back
And spirits surrounded us
The day we touched each others souls