Tim McGraw, Bbq Stain

It was Labour day weekend, I was seventeen, I bought a coke and some gasoline, and I drove out to the county fair. When I saw her for the first time, she was standin' there in that ticket line. and it all started right then and there, Oh a sailers sky made a perfect sun set, and that's a day I'll never forget I had a barbeque stain on my white t-shirt, she was killin' me in that mini skirt, skippin' rocks on the river by the railroad tracks, she had a sun tan line and red lipstick, I worked so hard for that first kiss, and a heart don't forget somethin' like that It was five years later on a south bound plane I was, headin' down to New Orleans. to meet some friends of mine for the Mardi Gras, when I heard a voice from the past, comin' from a few rows back, and when I looked, I couldn't believe just I what saw, she said I bet you don't remember me, and I said, only every other memory I had a barbeque stain on my white t-shirt, you were killin' me in that mini skirt, skippin' rocks on the river by the railroad tracks, you had a sun tan line and red lipstick, I worked so hard for that first kiss, and a heart don't forget somethin' like that Like an old photograph time could make us feel in pain, but the memory of the first love, never fades away I had a barbeque stain on my white t-shirt, she was killin' me in that mini skirt, skippin' rocks on the river by the railroad tracks, she had a sun tan line and red lipstick, I worked so hard for that first kiss, and a heart don't forget noooo, a heart don't forget, I said a heart don't forget somethin' like that Oh like somethin' like that
