Tom Lehrer, N Apostrophe T

"(Scene: Outside the cave of a very grouchy hermit "(H)". A very sweet child "(C)" coming along)"

- (C): Isn't it a lovely day?
- (H): No, it isn't!
- (C): Could you come outside and play?
- (H): No, I couldn't!
- (C): Did you ever take a hike?
- (H): No, I didn't!
- (C): How'd you like to ride my bike?
- (H): Frankly, I wouldn't!
- (C): Isn't, couldn't, didn't, wouldn't.

Is that all you can say?

(H): Isn't, couldn't, didn't, wouldn't - Yes, now go away.

The sweetest sound to me.

It stands for not,

I like it a lot.

It's spelled n-apostrophe-t.

- (C): Have you ever tried to smile?
- (H): No, I haven't!
- (C): Won't you try it for a while?
- (H): No, I won't!
- (C): Are there games to play in there?
- (H): No, there aren't!
- (C): Then why d'you like to stay in there?
- (H): Frankly, I don't!
- (C): Haven't, won't, aren't, don't.

Is that all you can say?

(H): Haven't, won't, aren't, don't - And I said, Go away.

Grouches all agree.

We get a glow

From saying no

With n-apostrophe-t.

- (C): Do you talk to anyone?
- (H): "(wistfully)" No, I don't!
- (C): Come on out and have some fun.
- (H): "(hesitantly)" No, I couldn't! (C): Can't you even tell me why?
- (H): "(apologetically)" No, I can't!
- (C): Will it kill you just to try?
- (H): "(wanting to) "Well, I shouldn't
- (C): Don't, couldn't, can't, shouldn't.

Now, try it once "my" way.

- (C): Do?
- (H): Do
- (C): Could?
- (H): Could
- (C): Can?
- (H): Can
- (C): Should.
- (H): Should! Hey, that feels okay!
- (C): So come along with me...
- (H): I'll give it a try.

And say goodbye

To n-apostrophe,

- (C): N-apostrophe,
- (C,H):N-apostrophe-t!
