

Tony Iommi, Saviour Of The Real

Let me take you to the western gate
I got a letter, gonna meet your fate
Here comes the rider, on the eye of the sky
He's gonna break you down, and let you die
I wanna know before you fade to black
You better listen, cos you don't know jack
I see you wear a silver rosary
Now do you need a little company?
And you're barely alive
And you never learn
And you're living outside
Outside yourself
I hear you scream across the universe
Mother nature's little sacred curse
You have been painted with a twisted smile
I see it's gonna have to take a while
And you're barely alive
And you never learn
And you're living outside
Outside yourself
You have lived in madness
You have been divided
Won't you let it be
You can't explain just how you feel
Take away my sadness
If you have decided
And I will make you see
Cos I'm the saviour of the real
I wanna know before you fade to black
You better listen, cos you don't know jack
I see you wear a silver rosary
Now do you need a little company?
And you're barely alive
And you never learn
And you're living outside
Outside yourself
You have lived in madness
You have been divided
Won't you let it be
You can't explain just how you feel
Take away my sadness
If you have decided
And I will make you see
Cos I'm the saviour of the real
Saviour
Saviour of the real
I'm the saviour
The saviour of the real
You have lived in madness
You have been divided
Won't you let it be
You can't explain just how you feel
Take away my sadness
If you have decided
And I will make you see
Cos I'm the saviour of the real