

Totem, Day Before The End

Dismantling our consciousness
From the future building past
With retentive memories
And reticent obey thoughts
With desire, dreams of soul
There's no sign to proof your identity
No vision to stay in one place
Clearing consciousness choosing fear
This one voice screaming in your head
Day before the end
Choose your fear before you answer
Day before the end
This time you lose your soul
Never turn back (There's no turning back)
Finding the way which leads
Finding the time which leads
You to promised whisper
Open your eyes and see
Open your heart and see
What lives inside your mind
Day before the end
Choose your fear before you answer
Day before the end
This time you lose your soul
Never turn back
Leading for victory we cannot be turning back
And this unknown dream controlling endless feast
This chosen path and skyline burning out
This vision hidden in front of your eyes
Wasting silence we destroying the moment of a birth
With no mercy in violence we're creating images
From the serpent dimension craved in your twisted mind
Travelling trough the voice of your heart