Travis Tritt, Tell Me I Was Dreaming

The roads that we've traveled Ain't always been easy Lord knows we've both seen our share Of troubles and trials It's hard to believe We made it so far together But just between you and me darling It was worth every mile It was worth every storm We had to weather It was worth all the evenings We cried together When the going got toughest I could count on your smile And looking back now I can say It was worth every mile I know you and I both had our doubts That we'd make it But deep in the back of our minds We knew all along That love's not for quitters So we kept ours moving Oh and I think you'll have to agree It was worth every mile It was worth every storm We had to weather It was worth all the evenings We cried together When the going got toughest I could count on your smile And looking back now I can say It was worth every mile And looking back now I can say It was worth every mile
