Treble Charger, Funny

Save your breath, don't waste your time
I can tell what's on your mind
No need to mention what we both know
It's quite a time you picked to tell me
It's quiet time and mostly lonely
And now it's time to save the past we know so well

It's not funny
We're not laughing like we did before
And it's not funny
It's just hurting more and more

Take your time to figure out
It's not that plain to see
And if you need someone to blame
Than you can blame it all on me
It's not the time you picked to tell me
It's more the way you want to show me
And that's all fine

It's not funny
We're not laughing like we did before
And it's not funny
It's just hurting more and more

You never told me
You never showed me
And now we're running back and forth between two lines
And now all the little things are no concern at all

Say what you want,
We know that it's true (all brand new)
Now that we're older now, seems like it's all brand new
And we've never heard it before
