

Trevor Morgan, Inside

Well hello God it's me again
Falling down on my knees again
I thought I'd finally gotten past myself
But I'm right back where I was before
And I don't want to be here anymore

Cause the fire still burns
And the flame's still glowing bright
Yea the fire still burns
Inside

Feeling down, I don't measure up
I'm so sure that I don't deserve Your love
But somehow You stick around in spite of me
Cause You can see beyond the things I've done
And I can almost hear You call me son

Cause the fire still burns
And the flame's still glowing bright
Yea the fire still burns
Inside

There's more to me than meets the eye
And only You can see the man inside

Well the fire still burns
And the flame's still glowing bright
Yea the fire still burns
Inside

Well the fire still burns
And the flame's still glowing bright
Yea the fire still burns
Inside

Hello God it's me again
