

Trnqvist Rebecka, Julio's Rainbow

(Trnqvist/Esbjrn Svensson)

Oh yes it rains and yet the sun shines through And there's a rainbow sparkling next to you
You turn your head and you try to see it But you don't see what I do I see the ladies watching where they tread Holding umbrellas high above their heads In slowmotion I saw you were smiling Was it something I said?
In another time we might just watch the boaters passing
I'd keep you in the corner of my eye
In another place we might be laughing and I'd know how to try We better leave I'll just finish my coffee and now the sun is gone, it simply pours there's no rainbow, there is no excuse to hold on anymore
In another time we might just watch the boaters passing
I'd keep you in the corner of my eye
In another place we might be laughing
and I'd know how to try So there it is, and though I really want you to remain in sight, I look away Just to see if somewhere there is a sunbeam
If there is a sunbeam, a rainbow is coming our way
