

Tsunami Bomb, 5150

Forget your torment,
what you should have been,
what is expected of you.

Face your fears,
face your open future,
and remember the way that you shine.

Your life is your own.

You can take control.

We don't want you to go.

Be grateful that you have a brain for thinking
and legs to take you places.

You can do what you dream about,
just believe in the way that you shine.

If we all took our own lives when living was troublesome,
we'd all be dead!
