

Tuesday, Let The Stars Play

Leave the stars out, I missed them tonight.
It's not as bright as when you're right here,
but I can feel you outside.
So leave the stars out, I missed them tonight.
If I could be anywhere, I would lay by your side,
under a night that is now over,
the moonlight has already died.
Let the moon shine like a bottle tonight.
I'll be 'till the dawn, promise I won't be late.
Let the moon shine, like a bottle in its light.
If I could stare with anyone,
I would stare by your side.
But we are apart, now as the moonlight,
always has to die.
