

Turin Brakes, 5 Mile (These Are The Days)

In the five mile high club
You are done for
Concentrate on landing
The town looks peaceful
Jet planes fly too close to the ground
It makes these houses shake
Flimsy figures fall to the ground
In a sentimental earthquake
Oh that's alright, that's alright
That's alright sad song tonight, oh...

These are the days that are driving me crazy
These are the days that are driving me insane
Everyday let your love shine down all around me
These are the days that are driving me crazy

When brothers and sisters fall to the ground
In half hast harmony
Lots of dreams for their wide eyes
But a small reality
Oh that's alright, that's alright
That's alright sad song tonight, oh...

These are the days that are driving me crazy
These are the days that are driving me insane

Take a train and then a jet plane
Travel back and forth in time
Pleased to meet you, what's your name?
I'm afraid I forgotten mine
Oh that's alright, that's alright
That's alright sad song tonight, oh...

These are the days that are driving me crazy
These are the days that are driving me insane
Everyday let your love shine down all around me
'Cos these are the days that are driving me crazy

These are the days - Let your love shine down on me
These are the days - Let your love shine down all around me