

Ty Herndon, The Only Way I Know

In a world where love is found and lost so easily
I'm so thankful I share my life with you

All around you hear the sound of faithless poetry

Oh I won't lie, that's something I won't do

Chorus

There must be a million words

To whisper soft and low

There must be a million ways

I could let my feelings show

But loving you with all my heart

And never letting go

That's the only way

The only way I know

Maybe I will never say everything I feel

Even so, you'll always know the truth

In the silence of a touch every word is real

As long as I live, that's what I'll give to you

Repeat Chorus
