

Tyler Hilton, Write You A Letter

Well I have been thinking
Which I shouldn't do
'Cause it gets me in trouble
And farther from you

I don't want a sentiment
Short and sweet and confidential, goodbye

Well my thoughts belong in
A book in a store where They're silently read, but Spoken no more

I didn't give my all
And to be honest with you
I didn't even try

Well I want you back, so bad
I'm gonna' change the way I'm actin'
I'm gonna' change and I'm so glad

Chorus:
I'm gonna' write you a letter
So much for the better
And if it goes my way
I'll have you running back to me
Well I'm a natural born forgetter
So much for the better
I can be romantic
I just gots to try to be

I have been thinking
Again this is bad
It seems that my thinking
Can drive you quite mad

But you can't say
There's another word, though,
To call this feeling
In my heart

Why did I take advice
From more romantic minds
But I can proudly reassure you
This idea was all mine

Chorus

Well I admit I take advice
From more romantic minds
But I can reassure you
This idea is all mine

Chorus

I can be romatic
I just gots to try to be (X3)
