

Tyr, Alive

Essence, divergence, freedom, dependence where to belong to, I'm longing, belongings what to relate to, our nations try, my patience dry, relations lie that This is our essence, there's no way behind the back wall of us all, and there's no way round the side walls of mind halls, hide behind the curtains thick folds and grow old, never know for certain how things would be if you were to be free and how high you could fly if you'd really try Go tell the world we're coming, just a matter of belief and space and time Till were gonna ride the wind of changes, sail the seas of this immense millennium Now sharpen your old axes, shine your armours and your sword of sight and sound My warriors, let's go down together, time will tell us whether we will do or die Our destiny is calling, calling, falling Falling off the world and down we're hurled you know the word
There's no use in hiding, destiny will find you Running or fighting, it's always right behind you how things would be if you were to be free
and how high you could fly if you'd really try
