

Umbrellas, Crooked

Last night I had this dream,
that I took you out of power.
All your plans had fallen through.
You had ambition, and I took that too.
I dethroned you.
I'm now the king of this castle,
and you will atone for your sins.

You're always up or down
But you're never around.
Well, friends like you,
I think I'm better off without.

Everyone is talking,
but they all sound the same.
All these singers singing-
They play the same games.
You're as crooked as the California coastline.
So I'm sending you a tornado to get back east.

You're always up or down
But you're never around.
Well, friends like you
I think I'm better off without.

You're always up or down
But you're never around.
Well, friends like you
I think I'm better off without.

So hold enjoy the ride.
And maybe your fear will subside.
You're a real piece of work.
I guess I'll see you around.
