

Umphey's McGee, Thirteen Days

The moment you leave you will be asking for more but I know what it is for Still for a time I could act surprised
As soon as it seems you will be where you were last but with no one to laugh at
So I wouldn't try for a second time

When you're alone there will be no one to say whether or not it's ok
Comfort can come in so many forms
Waiting to be shown every now and again that your willing to bet
Where should you go when your soul is torn? (Joel)
Why should you care when your soul is torn? (BB)

But It didn't have to be that way
Your just in time for somebody else's holiday 2x
Its more like a friend who you know from a dream, who you never would meet.
And all of your thoughts would be wasted on her

Climb and descend when you wanted to rest if your willing to guess
But that's not a promise I should offer
The race you can take everyday you're alive is enough to retire
But that's not a reason to be modest

Ways of mistake if you humor your pride if you're willing to lie
At least to yourself you were being honest

chorus