

Undying, Fallen Grace

there is a place in hell for you for each minute suffered, for each day survived paradise lost to heavens and hells have we emerged as that fallen grace? as adam who casts the first stone as eve who is first raped sister rise up to take your place shatter our hearts - rearrange us as one so I may know beauty as well as hate
sister rise up to take your place

...and she writhes in tear-stained sheets through fevered nightmares and whispered screams gifts of filth from a heaven divine revealer of secrets and bringer of lies as silently death is companion through each breath of death she takes hers is an anguish he can never know or understand under the shelter of his heaven we dance and await the violations his angels bring in this world that is hell

sister rise up to take your place
shatter our hearts - rearrange us as one
so I may know beauty as well as hate
sister rise up to take your place

shatter our hearts and rearrange us as one
have we emerged as that fallen grace?

for she who is lost for she who is shamed for she who the world looks black wonder not whose heaven crushes you when sin and slavery is all that is offered you