

Unearth, Internal War

Internal War

Killing our own

Burn the ones that have sinned against

Claim their lives in your death romance

Arm the young with your hunting toys

By your own actions you are all to blame

Power in the wrong hands our scaffold is destroyed

Children killing children because our government has ignored

I sling my arrows to shatter your walls

No more creating victims from ignorance

Left to second both sides

Each one cries and lies

No More War

You've killed again

My life for what

Bound hands

Yes you've all killed again

Stand by as dying children wait for life

The line has been crossed again

How long will it take

The line has been crossed again

How long will it take to protect life