

Utada, Give Me A Reason Romanized

Only sixteen tonight
I start to run while pursued
By a freedom so filled with contradictions

While crying out
That I don't want to be tied down by anything
I want to be tied to something, hey
It's not just being protected
I want to protect somebody

Give me a reason to show you
Without any reason, everytime you smile
(Won't you) Tell me why I should try to
Don't try to gaze at tomorrow
Give me a reason to love you
I'll show you I can betray all the laws
Even if that's my destiny

A vow for one person alone
Softly I whisper it, and sleep
If I could be even a little more honest, that'd be fine

The answer which I just found changes my shape

And confuses me, hey
Because it's so far it's frustrating
It's like changing one's skin

Give me a reason to show you
Someday I'd like to catch up to you
(Won't you) Tell me why I should try to
The closer I get, the farther I feel
Give me a reason to love you
Don't leave me alone now
If I had you
I wouldn't fear even this night

Give me a reason to show you
The road I arrived at while looking back
(Won't you) Tell me why I should try to
I won't be afraid of standing still any longer
Give me a reason to love you
Actually, I don't need any reasons
Raising our voices like children
Let's run